

Dear Colleagues,

As Miss Tang Xiaoxiao's project advisor, I am writing this letter with pleasure to support her application for acceptance to your program. I have been acquainted with her since August 2015. Having witnessed her progress in academic performance, I am delighted to learn the promising young lady's decision of pursuing further study in your esteemed program.

It was the August of 2015 that I got acquainted with Miss Tang when she served as a receptionist to receive foreign guests in railway station. I was deeply impressed by her proficient English and good people skill. In the beginning of 2016, she visited me with a paper in hand, and asked if I could review it and make some advice. After going through her paper, I found statistics-majored young lady had insightful views on the financial topic she chose. Through our private interaction, I learned that Miss Tang came from a family of financier.

Apart from her academic research passion, she took the initiative to put what she learns into real-life world. She invested in the stock market and record for half a year. I think she is a potential professional who is sensitive to the volatility of the market. From time to time, she would turn to me for suggestions when faced with the academic issues she felt confused with. All these merits she has would qualify her as a good learner in the area of finance.

As one of the top universities in China, Shandong University has cultivated numerous elites who have made remarkable achievements in all walks of life. Now, Miss Tang Xiaoxiao, a promising young lady, decides to advance her study and career in your distinguished program. I trust he will make a difference in her studies. I would appreciate it if you give her your favorable consideration. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Prof. Hu Fasheng

School of Mathematics, Shandong University

Email: huxinxiang@sdu.edu.cn

